From Your Pastor

After Michelle and I married, we moved to Charlottesville, Virginia. It is the hometown of the University of Virginia. I remember the arrival of our first college football season there.

The University was preparing to host the opening Thursday night game on ESPN, and the Auburn Tigers were coming to town. This was going to be UVA's first home night game, so they had to install proper stadium lights for the occasion. It was a really big deal for the University and the community.

When the lights were installed that summer, they tested them by keeping them on 24 hours a day for two weeks. The issue with this was that the stadium was located in a residential neighborhood.

As a result, neighbors complained that the sleep patterns of their children and pets were being disrupted.

The week of the game, Charlottesville was unprepared for the influx of Auburn fans that arrived days early. The city hastily sought suitable parking for the armada of Winnebagos until game time.

Despite the complications leading up to kickoff, there was an air of excitement throughout the city.

This fall, let's enjoy cheering for our favorite teams. Let's also remember that these are college students, and football is a game – a great game, but still just a game.

Blessings,
Ande

The results are in and confirm that we had a wonderful day of service in our community! 282 volunteers served through 28 projects for 873 person-hours. We estimated that donations valued at $12,617 were received and that over 5,200 people were served.

Thank you and let's keep serving together!
