From Your Pastor

Recently a friend received some very difficult news about his daughter. We talked just as he was beginning to process the situation and his role in it. My heart was breaking for them.

I asked, "What can I do?"

He said, "Just pray. Pray for us. Pray for her."

As a pastor, I frequently have the privilege of lifting individuals and situations up to the Lord in prayer. This is an absolute privilege. At times, I am privy to information that most people do not have. In these moments, I recognize that I have been entrusted with a great responsibility, and I strive to be a faithful steward of that trust.

Prayer serves as an avenue between us and God. When we pray, we can express our true emotions, saying, "We are afraid. Lord, help us." In prayer, we acknowledge the fragility of human life and the complexity of sin.

In prayer, we can confess our failures. We can recognize God's greatness. "Lord, you are our light and our salvation." We can also acknowledge God's all-encompassing kindness: "To whom else would we turn? Where else would we go?" In prayer, we can ask, "Lord, please provide strength enough for today."

So, for whom can you pray this week? Which circumstance can you lift up?

Will you practice this great privilege?

Blessings,
Ande
