From Your Pastor

Recently, I read an interesting novel with a group of friends. During our discussion, one person asked, "Who was the antagonist in the novel?" I thought the antagonist was the ticking clock.

In a recent podcast, a movie star mentioned that the hardest part of being on set while filming was the long periods spent waiting in her trailer. She noted that she would often wait for hours to film a scene, saying, "I'll never get that time back."

Psalms 90 states, "Teach us to number our days that we may gain a heart of wisdom." Attributed to Moses, this psalm reminds us that life is short and fragile.

Considering these reminders about time, how should we deal with it? Disciples will strive to concentrate on the present moment and, more importantly, the key moments in life. They will attempt to pay attention, listen, observe, and watch closely. The goal is to be fully present in the moment and engage where they are.

Disciples will prioritize reflecting on life and the things of God. They will ask God for guidance before making their plans and will express gratitude for his many gifts.

Eleanor Roosevelt is rumored to have said, "Yesterday is history, tomorrow is a mystery, and today is a gift. That is why it is called the present."

How shall we spend our time?

Blessings,
Ande
